[DISPATCHED TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MAY 7.

Proceedings of the Impeachment Court.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Mr. Bingham resumed his argument and it was not ended about 3 o'clock. As it is said in one of the issues A. applause, loud and continued arose in the galleries. The Chief Justice, after a futile attempt to restore silence, ordered the galleries to be cleared. The doorkeeper was unable to eject the people. Considerable confusion ensued in the floor of the Senate, several Senators desiring the order not to be enforced, others demanding its prompt execution. Finally the Metropolitan Police were called in and the galleries cleared. The doorkeeper then cleared the diplomatic gallery of the Foreign Ministers and ladies and finally also cleared the reporters' gallery. After closing the doors, Mr. Morrill, of Maine, submitted an order in relation to the Franchise, which was lost, by 25 to 29.

Mr. Edmunds then moved that when the Senate adjourns it be till Friday. Several objections having been made it was proposed to take up the several orders which had been laid over during the trial. The Chief Justice said it was in order.

Mr. Edmunds offered a motion to let in the reporters, but before it was voted upon was laid over.

Mr. Howard called for the reading of the twenty third rule.

Mr. Anthony moved that the rule be so amended as to give fifteen minutes for the speeches instead of ten. This was laid over, after which the Senate took a recess. Upon re-assembling the Chief Justice said it the case will be considered closed on both sides if neither had anything more to offer.

Mr. Hendricks moved that the preliminary order be considered in open session. Several Senators objected.

On motion of Mr. Edmunds the doors were again closed for deliberation.

Absurd and Contradictory Rumors About Impeachment.

CHICAGO, May 6.—Specials confirm the report that Fessenden has written an argument setting forth his views in opposition to the President's removal. One account says it is in opposition to the resolution on the Stanton article, holding that the President's disregard of a statute for the simple purpose of having it tested before the courts does not constitute a crime of sufficient magnitude to justify impeachment, and that the whole subject of the final verdict has been much discussed in City Democratic circles. Democratic Senators think that the effect will be to relieve Johnson. Democratic Senators think he will be acquitted. The opinion is expressed in some quarters that jealousy among Senators in regard to the Vice Presidency is at the bottom of the whole affair.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The Times' Washington dispatch states that Senator Fessenden has not indicated to any one how he will vote.

Senator Morrill says if Fessenden has written anything he certainly does not know which side he takes. No opinion or indication of how they shall vote has been given by either Trumbull, Sherman, Anthony or Henderson and the others about whom certain statements have been made.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The public debt statement shows the total debt less cash in the Treasury of $2,500,528,857 56. The decrease within the month is $18,030,407 50.

The Merriman Medical Association met to-day. About 450 delegates were present.

In the Senate Bingham continued speaking till 4 o'clock P. M., when he said he was fatigued, and the Senate adjourned.

The Reconstruction Committee to-day discussed the constitutions of the South'n States looking for re admission and finally agreed to report to the House the Constitution of Arkansas. First, they will insert a clause relative to the franchise as will put it in line with Alabama Constitution. This clause will be inserted in all the other Constitutions so as to make them conform. The committee meets on Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—In the House yesterday Dawes offered a resolution that the committee to investigate the Washburne Donnelly affair be also instructed to investigate the charges made by Brooks last Friday against Butler, relative to his administration in New Orleans. After considerable discussion it was adopted.

The Speaker prescated a communication from the President enclosing copies of the South Carolina and Arkansas Constitutions.

Cary offered a resolution, that in view of the exhibition in the House on Friday, Shanks and Hooker, the Managers be requested to withdraw the 10th article of impeachment. He referred to the scandalous debate between Brooks Butler and Logan on Friday, and Washburne and Donnelly on Saturday. Without action the House adjourned.

Indian Depredations in Utah and on the Plains.

SALT LAKE, T., May 5.—From Montana and Cheyenne, there are three further advices of Indian difficulties. Two whites were killed near Bozeman, in Gallatin Valley; nearly all the horses at that place have been run off. The male population of the valley all went after the Indians. Camp Cook, near Bozeman, nearly the head of United States horses and mules had been run off and Crabtree, formerly of Jackson county, Missouri, was killed.

The Cheyenne Argus reports four men killed and one wounded at Plum Creek, and two Mexican teamsters killed close to camp, sixty miles west of Cheyenne. Thirteen well mounted Indians made a dash at Sidney Station, near Pole Creek, but were defeated; they, however shot and wounded with arrows the freight contractors, Wilson, Edmundson, Thomas and Cowan, also scalping Cahoon. The same Indians, on giving up Pole Creek, skilled with arrows and scalped another man. Three Indians were supposed to be from the north.

Cheyenne is full of rumors about the Indians. Red Cloud had arrived at Laramie, and the terms of a treaty with him were drawn up for signatures. About two thousand Indians were near the North Platte showing the greatest contempt for the soldiers. It was expected the Indians would clean out the town, soldiers and all. Great alarm prevailed.

SALT LAKE, U. T., May 8.—The Indians made a raid last evening, and drove off fifteen head of horses. The men pursued and fired on the Indians, and recovered nine head of the horses. The men are in pursuit again to-day.

General Sherman arrived at Cheyenne from Omaha, on the 30th of April. The same evening he was visited by General Casement and Major Morris, at Fort Russell, to ascertain his views on the present Indian hostilities, and whether he would attend a public meeting. The General did not wish to express an opinion till after his return from Laramie, whither he was to start on the second instant, but he said Congress did not want a war if it could be helped.

Meeting of the Methodist General Conference.

CHICAGO, May 6.—The Methodist General Conference is now in session in this city. Fifty-five regular conference are represented, besides fifteen mission conferences, including those in the Southern States. This conference will be a very important gathering. The address of the Bishop was presented yesterday, recapitulating the progress and changes since the last general conference four years ago. The address shows a very gratifying advance in church membership and increase of territory occupied. The institutions of the church are represented as generally in an improved condition, as also the property. The total church membership is now 1,146,001, increase nearly a quarter of a million since 1864. The number of the church edifices is 11,121, the value of which is $35,985,437, being an increase of nearly 20 per cent within four years. The aggregate amount of collections is stated at $6,637,682. In regard to missions, generally are in a satisfactory condition, and the future looks hopeful. The receipts of treasure by the Missionary Secretaries show an unparalleled increase, they being more than double that of any previous quadrennial period they amount to nearly two millions and a half. The published interests are very prosperous, and the amount of sales show a very large increase. The address concludes with suggestions and recommendations on various subjects.

Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, May 6.—The strikers at Prospect Park were fired on by the police, to prevent an anticipated riot.

The trustic work at the Erie Railroad depot, Jersey City, gave way to-day, letting the locomotive at the river. The engineer and fireman were drowned.

Three thousand one hundred and seventy-seven emigrants arrived at this port to-day.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Governor English was inaugurated at New Haven to-day. His message to the Legislature charges Congress with arrogantly constituting itself the sole exponent of the popular will and practically asserting its supremacy over the Constitution itself. He condemns the action of Congress relative to the Supreme Court and Impeachment, and denounces the revision of the State Constitution in 1869 to prevent the inequalities of representation.

Rich Discovery of Quartz.

AURORA, Nev., May 8.—A rich discovery at Bodie has been reported within the past few days. Dan Olston & Co. discovered a quartz ledge on a high peak near the Empire Company's works. Joe Huckenson, one of the owners brought some of the rock into town to-day, and it is certainly rich—principally gold. It has created quite an excitement here amongst the mining community. The owners think it will average one thousand dollars to the ton. Their shaft is only sixteen feet deep, and improves as they go down.

Weather pleasant and roads are all open now.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

LONDON, May 7.—France has suddenly broken off diplomatic relations with Tunis for alleged repeated outrages upon French residents in that country.

PARIS, May 7.—It is authoritatively denied that the French Ambassador at St. Petersburg had an ultimatum will G. rtschakoff relative to the eastern question.

PARIS, May 5.—A dispatch from Berlin says the South German papers threaten to have a duel on Belgian soil on the address issued by the Party of German Unity receive consideration at the hand of the Reichstag.

LONDON, May 6.—Midnight.—In the House of Commons to-night Gladstone referred to the strike in Prussia. He asserted in the House of Lords last night that the Queen left it to the Ministry to dissolve Parliament whenever they pleased. He said such power was unconstitutional. It left the Ministry at liberty to deal with laws which have not yet arisen. He asked for an explanation of that statement and contradicted the one made in the House.

Disraeli, in answer said there was no discrepancy between the statements made to the two Houses. He had offered to resign, but his offer was declined. His advice to the Queen was to dissolve Parliament when the State business permits. This was without any reference to the new Committee to find if the writ of the House was not soon completed a new House would be elected by them.

Mr. Stafford Northcote said the Ministry had no intention to mend the Reform Act.

Disraeli again rising said the dissolution was only referred to case an issue in the Irish Church question was presented.

Several other important speeches during the debate.

THE KU KLUX KLAN—MURDER OF COL. ASHburn.—A letter to the Tribune, dated Columbus, (Ga.) April 1st, gives full particulars of the murder of Col. Ashburn by the Ku Klux Klan. It says: Between twelve and one o'clock last night a crowd of persons, estimated at from thirty to forty in number, went to the house where Mr. Ashburn lodged, surrounded the building, broke open the rear and front entrances, and murdered him in his room. He received three fatal shots, one in the head between the eyes, one just below and to the rear of the hip, and another one in the mouth, which ranged upward. His clothing had from ten to 14 bullet holes in them. Five persons entered his room and did the murderous deed, the rest were in other parts of the house and in the yard. The crowd remain from ten to fifteen minutes, during which time no policeman made his appearance. As the murderous crew were dispersing, however, some policemen made their appearance on the opposite side of the street. They could give no account of the affair when examined. This deed was perpetrated on one of the principal streets, in the most public part of the city, not far from the Perry House. All the assassins wore masks and were well dressed, showing that they were of the "better class" of citizens of Columbus. They are evidently members of the now secret political order called the Ku Klux Klan. This "Klan" seems to have organized here within the last week or two. It is now about a month since the first notice appeared in the papers of its existence in Tennessee. Within the last week these cabalistic letters and signs have been marked on the doors and walls throughout this city, placards have been posted up at the doors of Union men, containing their mystic letters and signs, with skulls, coffins, skeletons cross bones, deadly weapons, and written sentences breathing out the most terrible threat against them. They were warned that their time was short, that their days were numbered, that they must prepare for sudden and awful death. They were reminded that the time had come when the blood of the Confederate dead would be required at their hands, that the spirits of the slain were swarming through the atmosphere, and calling for vengeance. Secret associations were hinted at in various ways. No less than three of these mysterious placards were hung up at the door of the Assessor of Internal Revenue, Joseph Webster. On one of them he was warned to prepare for sudden death. One of them contained a coffin, with Ashburn's name written near it, and the picture of a skeleton lying in it. Among other things a bundle of bones was hung up at Mr. Webster's door. Several Union men have received anonymous missives warning them that they must prepare to die.

The "Democratic" Method of Discussion.

The Herald has the astonishing effrontery to say that—

> By comparing the last annual Message of Mr. Buchanan with the inaugural of Mr. Lincoln it will be seen that their positions as to the constitutional rights of secession were identical. (1) Both argued against the right of secession; both declared their purpose to maintain the paramount authority of the Constitution, and both emphatically repudiated the doctrine that the Constitution conferred upon the General Government the power to coerce or subjugate States. (1 1)

To ascertain the facts, let us refer to the two official documents mentioned, quoting first from Mr. Buchanan. After alluding to the constitutional obligation of the Executive, sworn by a solemn oath, "to take care that the laws be faithfully executed," he said:

> But what if the performance of this duty, in whole or in part, has been rendered impracticable by events over which he could exercise no control? Such, at the present moment, is the case throughout the State of South Carolina. In fact no power has been left to Congress the whole question in all its bearings. The course of events is rapidly hastening forward that the emergency may soon arrive when you will be called on to decide the momentous question whether you possess the power, by force of arms, to compel a State to remain in the Union. I should feel myself recreant to my duty were I not to express an opinion on this important subject.

The question is plainly stated in: Has the Constitution conferred upon Congress the power to coerce a State into submission, which is attempting to withdraw (as actually withdrawn from the Confederacy)? After much serious reflection, I have arrived at the conclusion that no such power has been delegated to Congress or to any other department of the Federal Government.

This is the modern "Democratic" doctrine. President Buchanan made an excuse that though he had taken an oath to execute the laws, that duty had been "rendered impracticable" as to South Carolina, by the action of that State; he propounded the question whether the General Government had a right "to compel a State to remain in the Union," and answered it most emphatically in the negative. We shall now see what President Lincoln said in his inaugural:

> To the extent of my ability I shall take care, as the Constitution itself expressly enjoins upon me, that the laws of the Union shall be faithfully executed in all the States. Doing this I deem only a simple duty on my part; and I shall perform it as far as practicable, unless my rightful masters, the American people, shall withhold the requisite means, or in some authoritative manner, direct the contrary. The power confided to me will be used to hold, occupy and possess the property and places belonging to the Government. * * * * I am loth to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battle-field and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.

Nowhere in the inaugural or in any message did President Lincoln take the position assumed by Buchanan, that there was no constitutional right to compel a State to remain in the Union. The assertion which the Herald makes, that he did take that position, only shows how shameless a "veteran" Copperhead editor may become in the employment of falsehood. It is positively amazing that any one can have the stupendous impudence to assert that President Lincoln held the Buchanan-Democratic doctrine that the Government has no power "to coerce a State into submission which has withdrawn from the Union." It is only necessary to go one step further and deny that Mr. Lincoln ever called coercion, or that there has been any war. We look for this denial in the next number of the "Herald." Can a paper which publishes such falsehoods as we have quoted from the Herald be anything else than subsidized? While in the habit of every person of common sense in both parties?

[illegible] stated in an election may not be a very convincing political argument; but it is one which the Democracy have been using for years past. Not three days ago the following [illegible] Capt. John F. Miller asks us to give [illegible] M. Mr. A. Bush and Mr. Dan Waldo have each deposited $1,000 in gold in the safe of J. C. Ainsworth, subject to be bet as an even thing on J. K.'s election.

Will [illegible] men in Portland coin [illegible] this money. A day or two was spent in fruitless negotiations, the monied gentlemen of Salem evidently being loth to come to time. On Saturday telegrams were sent to the place to know what had become of the money which had been so ostentatiously offered, and the following reply was received:

SALEM, May 9th, 1868.

Have sent to Bush. World not interest. Betting Democrats all out of town. Smith needs down. "Species" not on it.

So the [illegible] joke which the Democracy have tried to play is spoiled. Their potent argument of selling is turned against them. A while ago they were offering to bet any amount of money. Now an Democrat here, in Salem or anywhere else, so far as known, has a dollar to bet on Smith. They who were rattling their money so briskly on the streets of Portland a few days ago, will not stake anything on either the State or Multnomah county unless great odds are given them. The Herald not long ago said there "was not an intelligent Republican in the county who would wager dimes to dollars against the success of the Democratic ticket." The truth is, no Democrat will wager dimes to dollars on either their State or county ticket. Their politicians at this place have been completely crest-fallen since the return of Smith from the South. From the fact that they have so confidently weakened on their favorite argument of betting, the inference is irresistible that they have learned there that they have nothing to hope for. We do not approve of the practice of betting, but we do not think it at all likely that any betting will be done. The Democrats have lost that "argument" for the rest of the campaign.

[illegible] adopted in an effort to show that Mr. Lincoln held and practiced the Buchanan-Democratic idea that the Government has no constitutional power to coerce the obedience of a State! "Democracy" is really equal to the fabrication of anything. Borish denounced, abused and vilified Mr. Lincoln for five years, because he "coerced" the rebels, and now he makes it out a clear case that Mr. Lincoln never coerced them at all.

Pendleton's Record.

The Democrats of Oregon and of many other States have indicated George H. Pendleton as their choice for President. We present a few facts from his record

In January, 1861, he declared against the right of the Government to enforce its authority in the revolted States and appealed to Congress to "let the seceding States depart in peace."

August 2, 1861, Pendleton voted against an act to provide increased revenue to carry on the war and to pay interest on the public debt.

August 5, 1861, Pendleton voted to strike from the army bill a section declaring legal and valid the act of the President in calling out troops to quell the rebellion.

February 25, 1862, Pendleton voted to compel officers of the army to return runaway negroes to their rebel masters.

April 8, 1862, he voted against the bill to provide internal revenue, support the Government and pay the interest on the public debt. He was in a minority of fifteen, with such rebels as Vallandigham.

May 6, 1862, he dodged a vote upon the question of a Pacific Railroad, although he was present and voted but a few minutes before on a contested election case, and again, June 28, he dodged the question.

May 28, 1862, Pendleton voted with seventeen others against a bill imposing taxes on the insurrectionary districts.

December 17, 1863, he voted against a resolution declaring that the war ought to be prosecuted "as long as there should be found a rebel in arms against the Government."

January 18, 1864, he voted against a resolution submitted by Green Clay Smith of Kentucky, declaring that "it is the political, civil, moral and sacred duty of the people to meet the rebellion, fight it, crush it, and forever destroy it."

April 9, 1866, he voted against the expulsion of B. G. Harris, a Representative from Maryland, who had used the following treasonable language in Congress: "The South asked you to leave them in peace. But no; you said you would bring them into subjection. That has not been done yet; and God Almighty grant that it never may be. I hope you will never subjugate the South." Pendleton voted to keep the man who had used these treasonable words in his seat in Congress.

Here is a small portion of the official record of the man whom the Democratic party propose for President. Men of Oregon, are these things less odious now than they were in 1864?

Hoist by Their Own Petard.

All the twaddle of the day about the South being given up to the control of the negroes is fully refuted in an editorial article which appears in the Oregon Herald of the 3d inst. To show how completely Democrats can overthrow their own argument, we give a paragraph from the article referred to. We have given above the heading of the article in every way suitable to the subject:

> The fact is, the attempt to rule the South by negro votes is the interest of the Republican party, is an unanimous failure. It can only be made practical by perpetual military despotism. Every man who knows anything of negro nature, knows that without any outside interference the negro naturally and inevitably submits to the superior race with which he is brought in contact. Where the military and the Freedmen's Bureau dominate, they will vote as those powers direct; take them away, and they vote as their old masters direct. Put ten white men of ordinary intelligence into a community with a hundred negroes and the whites will rule. Charles Sumner and other New England demagogues, in their public speeches to the laboring men of Boston and Lowell, would tell them that the owner of a hundred slaves in the South had sixty votes, while no white man in the North was allowed more than one vote. The practical truth at the same time was, that every manufacturer in New England who employed a hundred men, controlled a hundred votes, or the men were thrown out of employment. Under the reconstruction system, every man in the South who employs a hundred negroes will control a hundred votes, instead of the old system which gave him but one vote on a basis of representation of sixty to a hundred inhabitants. The inevitable consequence of establishing negro suffrage in the South is, to enhance the power of that predominating class of whites whom the Radicals delight to wage the country as rivals.

The "intelligent contraband" of historic fame, who used to report the most reliable intelligence for the newspaper correspondents, has been superseded by a "prominent gentleman"—sometimes called a "prominent Democrat"—at Washington, who cooks up stories of about the same quality as those furnished by his celebrated predecessor. This new prodigy is chiefly employed by the New York Herald. His ingenuity so far has been equal to all demands upon it. That story that the "Radical Congress" was just about to appoint Gen. Grant dictator for life was one of his. He has been interesting himself pretty deeply in the impeachment trial, and is supposed from reports to be in close confidence with, in fact the bosom friend of, Senator Fessenden. The "intelligent contraband" couldn't hold a candle to him.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 13, 1868.

On Thursday, the 9th, the Senate again met as a Court of Impeachment, and the defense of the President was formally opened by Judge Curtis. There was an unusual demand for tickets. Soon after 11 o'clock, the galleries were filled with a brilliant and fashionable audience—a majority of them ladies, as on former occasions, though the sterner sex was more numerously represented than on any previous day. Among the notable persons on the floor of the Senate were Lieut. Gen. Sherman, his father-in-law, Thomas Ewing, senior, and Secretary McCulloch. In the Diplomatic Gallery were the British Minister Thornton, and representatives from most of the other foreign legations, young James Gordon Bennett, Theodore Tilton and others. And in the galleries were, as usual, the daughters of the Chief Justice, Mrs. Kate Sprague and Miss Nettie Chase, and the wives and daughters of many of the Senators and members of Congress. Among the many ladies present, none attracted more attention than little Maggie Mitchell, the most successful actress in America. Ad interim Thomas, as usual, occupied his time in roaming around the corridors like a stray dog, peeping over the heads of persons standing in one of the doorways, then disappearing suddenly, only to turn up immediately at some other doorway. "Now you see him and now you don't." At 12 o'clock the Court was opened in the usual form, and the Managers, a portion of the members of the House, and the President's counsel, entered the Senate chamber. Gen. Butler called two witnesses for the prosecution—W. H. Wood, of Alabama, formerly a Union soldier; and Foster Blodgett, President of the Georgia Constitutional Convention, who was removed from the office of postmaster of Augusta, Georgia, by the President. Butler then announced that the Managers had closed their evidence, whereupon the Chief Justice informed the President's counsel that they might proceed with their defense. Judge Curtis rose and commenced speaking from notes. He spoke slowly and distinctly, but in a monotonous dry style, which was not very interesting to the audience in the galleries, however much it may have been to the Senators and the legal fraternity on the floor of the Senate. After speaking some three hours, Mr. Curtis pleaded fatigue, and, on motion of Senator Johnson, the Court adjourned, a few minutes before 4 o'clock, until 12 o'clock the next day. The Senate then went into executive session, and soon afterward adjourned.

On Friday, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather—drizzling rain and melting snow that had covered the ground during the night—the galleries were again densely crowded, and Senators were besieged for tickets which they could not furnish. The usual number of distinguished persons were present—among them Lieut. General Sherman and Maj. General Hancock. Judge Curtis resumed his speech immediately after the reading of the Journal, and continued to speak about two hours, closing a little after two o'clock. Adjutant General Lorenzo Thomas was then placed on the stand, and was questioned by Stanbery, and was examined by Butler. The examination was lengthy, and lasted till the court adjourned, at a little after five o'clock. A dispute arose between Stanbery and Butler as to whether Thomas should be allowed to date a conversation which took place between himself and the President after the date of the order for the removal of Stanton. The Senate finally voted to admit that part of the testimony by 42 yeas to 10 nays, those voting in the negative being Messrs. Cameron, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Drake, Harlan, Howard, Nye, Ramsey and Thayer. When Sumner's name was called and he answered "aye," it created considerable merriment; some remarking mischievously that it was the first time he had been known to "vote with the Copperheads." Thomas stated in portions of his testimony that he had intended to break down the doors of the War Office, and use other forcible means to take possession, and in other portions of it he denied having ever intended to use force. He contradicted himself in many instances throughout his entire testimony, and along toward the close was completely bewildered. At first the audience laughed heartily at his contradictions and odd expressions, but as the old man became more and more confused and befuddled, under the terrible goadings of Butler, he became an object of pity. On the evening after his arrest, he went to the Secretary's room and made another demand for the War Office, but Stanton refused to give possession. After some members of Congress, who were in the room when he entered, had retired, Thomas testified that the following conversation took place:

> "I said 'The next time you have me arrested, please do not do it before I get something to eat. I said I had had nothing to eat or drink that day.' He [Stanton] put his hand around my neck, as he sometimes does, and ran his hand through my hair, and turned around to General Schriver and said, 'Schriver, you have got a bottle here; bring it out.' [Laughter.]

By Mr. Stanbery:

Question. What then took place?

Answer. Schriver unlocked his case and brought out a small vial, containing, I suppose, about a spoonful of whisky, and stated at the same time that he occasionally took a little for dyspepsia. [Laughter.] Mr. Stanton took that and poured it into a tumbler and divided it equally and we drank it together.

Question. A fair division?

Answer. A fair division, because he held up the glasses to the light and saw that that they each had about the same, and we each drank. [Laughter.] Presently a messenger came in with a bottle of whisky, a full bottle; the cork was drawn, and he and I took a drink together. 'Now,' said he, 'this, at least, is neutral ground.' [Laughter."]

That is a fair specimen of the evidence, and indicates correctly the caliber of Ad interim Thomas—a weak, vain old man, who could be flattered to undertake anything, and then be turned aside and whoedled out of his resolutions by a drink of whisky.

On Saturday, Thomas came back, and asked to be allowed to "correct" his testimony of the previous day. On being examined, he stated that certain portions of the evidence he gave on Friday was false. Lieut-General Sherman was then sworn. He testified that the President twice offered him the War Office, which he each time declined to accept. Stanbery asked him to state the conversation which took place between him and the President on the 14th of January—the day after Stanton was reinstated. Butler objected. Stanbery and Butler then entered into a lengthy argument. The Chief Justice decided that the question might be answered by the witness. The Senate overruled the decision and excluded the question by a vote of 23 yeas to 29 nays—Corbett and Williams both voting in the negative. Stanbery then asked General Sherman to state the conversation which took place at the time when the President first tendered him the appointment of Secretary of War ad interim, but the Senate refused to admit the question by a vote of 23 yeas and 29 nays—the same as the previous vote; except that Howe voted in the negative. Stanbery then wanted to ask if the first said his object in removing Stanton was to get the matter before the Courts. The Senate refused to admit this question by a vote of 44 nays to 7 yeas—three Republicans (Anthony, Fowler and Ross) voting yea, and six Democrats (Buckalew, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Hendricks and Johnson) voting no. Senator Hendricks then submitted in writing a similar question, in a different form, and the Senate voted not to admit it—25 to 27. After some unimportant motions the Court adjourned.

To-day the attendance was very large, and the galleries were filled at an early hour, the ladies predominating as usual. It being Easter holiday the Capitol grounds and that portion of the building open to the public were overflowing with school children, breaking Easter eggs and making the place lively with their clamor. A pending motion to modify the rules which confines the closing argument to two of the Managers and two of the counsel for the defense, so as to allow all of the Managers and counsel to speak, was discussed at some length, the Managers insisting strenuously that the rule should be so modified. After several amendments had been offered to the original motion, Senator Williams moved to lay the motion and the various amendments on the table, which was carried by a vote of 38 to 10. Those who voted in the negative were Anthony, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Fowler, Grimes, McCreery, Patterson, of Tennessee, Trumbull and Willey. Gen. Sherman was again called to the stand, and Stanbery asked him whether the good of the service did not require that another man than Stanton should be at the head of the War Office. Butler objected, and after speeches by Butler, Bingham, Stanbery and Evarts, the Senate voted to exclude the question—35 to 15. A similar question, propounded by Senator Johnson, was voted down—32 to 18. Gen. Sherman was then dismissed without cross-examination. After recess the papers relating to the arrest of ad interim Thomas were placed in evidence. Gen. Sherman was recalled, and Senator Johnson propounded in writing a question in regard to the conversation of the President when he tendered him the appointment of Secretary of War, ad interim. The question was finally allowed, and Gen. Sherman answered it. This gave Butler a chance to draw out the whole conversation, which was amusing as well as interesting. Gen. Sherman testified that the President told him the tenure-of-office act was unconstitutional, and that he would not be bound by it; that Stanton was a coward, and would not attempt to hold possession of the office, if he [Sherman] would accept the appointment; and that he [Johnson] would never recognize Stanton as Secretary of War again under any circumstances. This created quite a sensation in the Senate chamber, and the President's counsel seemed greatly annoyed and perplexed. At 5 o'clock the Court adjourned to meet at 12 to-morrow.

In Connecticut the Democrats re elected Gov. English by about 1,500 majority—a slight gain since last year. This was caused by a importation from New York City into Hartford, Bridgeport, and New Haven, as factory hands and laborers. The Republicans gained largely throughout the State, and had it not been for this concentration in the cities, would have elected their candidate for Governor. However, they have secured a much larger majority in the Legislature than they had last year, which gives them a Republican Senator after the 4th of March next in place of James Dixon. The new constitution of Michigan was defeated by a large majority. Many local matters entered into the contest, so it is no indication of the political status of the State. Michigan is good for a majority of 15,000 to 20,000 for Grant next fall. Most of the local elections held last Monday throughout the country show Republican gains.

The Ku Klux Klan, an organized band of rebel assassins extending all over the South, have committed numerous depredations lately, and General Meade has issued an order for their suppression.

The Lincoln Monument, erected by the citizens of Washington, in front of the city hall, is nearly completed, and will be dedicated to-morrow.

Last Monday, after making decisions in a number of cases, the U. S. Supreme Court adjourned until December next. One of the cases decided was the celebrated Gaines will case. It was decided in favor of the plaintiff, Mrs. Gaines. The will was contested on the ground that Mrs. Gaines was not legitimate. In 1802 her father, Daniel Clark, married Zulema Carrier, she having separated from a former husband on learning that he had another wife. In 1807 Mr. and Mrs. Clark separated, no public acknowledgement of their marriage having been made, and Mrs. Clark married. In 1812 Mr. Clark made a will, in which he devised his immense property to his daughter Myra. She was raised by a Mr. Davis, and knew nothing of her parents or of her rights. In 1833 she married Wm. W. Whitney, and in examining some old papers he obtained an intimation of his wife's parentage and claims. Her husband died, after spending what he had in prosecuting the case. She married Maj. Gen. Gaines, who, after spending a large fortune, also died, leaving her a widow again. After the case had been nine years in the courts of Louisiana, she appealed it to the Supreme Court of the United States, and after a further delay of twenty-seven years—making thirty-six years of litigation—the case was decided in her favor last Monday, making her, perhaps, the richest woman in America. The amount involved includes a large portion of the real estate of Louisiana and of the city of New Orleans. One tract of land contains 110,000 acres, another 70,000 acres, and there are many other smaller tracts. In 1841 a schedule of only a part of the property showed a value of over five million dollars. The little woman was in court when the decision was made, and was congratulated by the lawyers on her final triumph, after a delay of so many years.

A THRILLING INCIDENT
In the mission life of Mrs. Ingalls in Burmah, is well told in the "Baptist Missionary," relating how she was sent for to visit one of the Buddhist high priests who had been nearly killed, and how, while in the most holy place in their temple, where none but the priests had ever before been admitted, she was permitted unrebuked to use for him the sacred words, which none but the high priest dare touch, and then exercising and all on one of their gods to cast out the evil spirit, through the magic influence of the Pain Killer, called by them the "God medicine," successfully had also the gratifying result among their many diseases, some of them considered in relation fatal to that climate, among which were cholera, liver complaint, dyspepsia, the bites of venomous reptiles, &c. This speaks volumes for the Pain Killer. For sale by all dealers.
Rev. J. F. Clough, Missionary at Ongole, Southern India, writes:—"We esteem it as Pain Killer very highly for scorpion stings, chiggers, &c., and cannot very well get along without it."
Rev. I. D. Colburn, Missionary at Tavoy, Burmah, writes: "I shall be happy to assist in extending a knowledge of a remedy so specific and beneficial." m14d1awlm

Under the Lime Tree.

(From "Robin and Maggie." An Idyl.)

Maggie sits by with a Hum,
Where the bees are ever humming,
Maggie's time to trysting time,
Surely Robin must be coming.

Robin, not a mile away,
Keeps behind the fence demurely;
Loth to go, afraid to stay,
Yet his heart is with her, surely.

Maggie plies the knitting pins,
How they flash between her fingers!
Pride and anger, mortal sins,
Grow apace while Robin lingers.

Rob, unseen, in ambush stands,
Watches who's to wear the stocking,
Glances on her busy hands,
And the tiny foot a-rocking.

Maggie drops the knitting down;
Crafty Robbin hears her sighing,
After one indignant frown
Pretty Maggie falls a crying.

Robin from his covert slips,
Robin throws an arm about her;
Kisses thrice her eyes and lips,
Vows he'd rather die than flout her.

Maggie dries her hazel eyes,
Whispers low: "My heart is aching
Both for sighs, "Be true and wise,
Keep and care for what you're taking."

"Why, Rob, I've been overheard,
And you think so; don't deny it,
I'll restore you (twenty-fold)"—
"Hush, no, Robin; there, be quiet."

The President's Counsel.

A Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune furnishes the following pen portraits of the President's counsel:

Of the seven gentlemen who have thus far conducted themselves with such quiet dignity and manliness—the occasional snappishness of Mr. Stanbery erupting out despite his efforts to contain himself—Mr. Evarts, the general manner to the witnesses and the Managers, has been characterized with, politeness and courtesy, which has made a favorable impression on the audience.

Evarts is calm and contained always. He says unpleasant things occasionally, but he does it in such a way, in such a winning voice, that even General Butler seldom replies ill-naturedly. Yet there is no suavity in his manners. He is earnest and frank without being severe. His voice is one of the finest I ever heard, and the wonder is that somebody with such a voice out of so little a body. His form is pinched and attenuated in the extreme. He is not only a man of small bones and scanty flesh, but he is unusually small in stature, and his weight would be exceeded by any robust schoolgirl.

Not so Judge Curtis, of Boston, the next in influence to the President's counsel, who, for some days, has been preparing to make the opening argument for the President, which he will do on Thursday. He sits at the table, his body slid down in the chair so that he seems to rest his neighbor on the back of his head, which he constantly rubs into his pendulous pompadour, and his neck drawn in like a turtle's. His head seems to rest uncertainly on his round shoulders, and he turns it with as much care as though fragrance he feared it might drop off. Judge Curtis is more striking—a large round face, squarish forehead, small eyes, firm jaws, and generally a look about the mouth and eyes that is Hebe-about the same age as the Chief, of much the same build, but heavier, hair similar in appearance, and face clearly shaven. Curtis listens passively, apparently because he has nothing else to do, and seems to unwillingly that he is obliged to. Yet he does not by any means look as lazy or stupid, but rather as the careful considerate and methodical. He does not look as sharp and keen and seldom uses gestures. His manner of speaking is purely that of a lawyer.

Groesbeck, who took Black's place, is taller than Stanbery, being probably, notwithstanding his stoop, six feet in height. He has a finely shaped, but small head, a very cunning face, with nose made heavier at the end by marks of small pox. He is of slender build, but is well preserved and straight. He has thus far taken no part in the proceedings by making an occasional note. He sits at the rear end of the table, and laughs good naturedly at the Chief and Butler, and toys with his eye-glasses.

Nelson, of Tennessee, the remaining counsel, sits opposite Evarts, and has the whole side of the table to himself, except a little corner occupied by Mr. A. Bright, the stenographer of the Attorney-General's office, who has been detailed for what authority does not appear) as the counsel's clerk. Nelson looks and acts like a man who had a small load of potatoes to town and went to the [illegible] to get "put out" before dark. During the first day of the trial, while parts of Groesbeck appeared, he made a few feeble remarks in asking for time in order to prepare the Presidential answer. He is a disinclination to the trial apparently, and if he could would rather smoke his pipe before a general fireplace. Yet he is said to be one of the ablest lawyers in Tennessee, whatever degree of merit that may imply.

The high value of the respect for the Supreme Court which Democrats affect when they expect a decision in their favor, is shown by the recent action of the Democratic majority in the Ohio Senate. The result announced by the World: "Henry M. Oade, dem., Democrat, has been admitted to the Ohio Senate, vice Homer C. Jones, Republican, who lost a contest of the election. The Senate [illegible] to unseat Jones, therefore adjudged by the Supreme Court of the State to be qualified elector, was wholly disqualified by reason of any, even the most distant, admixture of African blood."

The Springs in Florida.—There is near Ocala, Florida, a remarkable spring, one of the largest of the great number known in that State. It is called Silver Spring. I [illegible] a picture of a lone hammock, [illegible] in water. It bubbled up in a basin 37 feet high and about an acre in extent, and overflowing it, and sending from it a [illegible] 600 feet wide, and [illegible] miles to the Ocklawaha river, into which it flows. The spring itself is [illegible] at a time, and in the [illegible] of cowardly [illegible] run [illegible] The [illegible] of it is even [illegible] You see on the bottom [illegible] feet below the bottom of [illegible] with [illegible] form of the vegetable [illegible] and [illegible] of color [illegible] large fish swimming in [illegible] and [illegible] movement [illegible] The water is impregnated [illegible] and [illegible] is, but has no apparent [illegible] and is excellent drinking water. If you go over the [illegible] in a boat you will by a [illegible] in the rocks from which the [illegible] flows upwards like an inverted cataract. There are more of these springs in the channel further down. Such springs are [illegible] Clay Spring, [illegible] Lake Apopka, pours forth a navigable stream into the St. Johns. Rock Spring, on the west side of Lake Harris, is nearly as large as Silver Spring. I have laughed at a story of a spring in Iowa which was large enough to turn a mill, but I can [illegible] all such tales now, after having seen one that will float a fleet.—Cor. Cincinnati Commercial.

Emigration from Ireland.—A dispatch to the New York World, dated March 26th, says the exodus to the United States has well begun. Four [illegible] are advertised to sail for America, and she left for New York yesterday, [illegible] hundred emigrants, and it is estimated that one thousand in addition will leave by the other three should they afford accommodation for them. Queenstown is now crowded with [illegible], and parties numbering from fifty to hundreds are to be met with on the thoroughfare leading from the terminal of the great Southern and Western railroad, and from other railroad depots, wending their way toward the railroad trains and river steamers for Queenstown, en route for the States of the Union. Nearly all these parties are between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five years. It is calculated that the number of emigrants for this and next month from this port will be up to, if not exceed, the great rush of the same period in 1866, which occurred immediately after the futile attempt at insurrection made by the Fenians.

Medical.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to it or see who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cured for sad and sorrowful will be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and others places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or clandestine sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Pallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, bashfulness, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by this new and scientific mode of treating the disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Patients at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are rogues, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.
Consultation FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian

H. W. SHIPLEY & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
SHIPLEY'S PATENT PACIFIC
TURBINE WATER WHEEL!

OF WHICH THE ABOVE IS AN ILLUSTRATION, has FOUR SETS OF BUCKETS, AND USES THREE FOURTHS OF THE WATER TWICE.

The old high-priced, unequalled and unrivalled wheel has been reared out by a fair working trial made by Mr. H. Kelly, at his saw mill, and the public can see what he says as to the capacity of the two wheels in the following testimonial over his own signature.

MR. H. W. SHIPLEY—Sir. In reply to your inquiry as to how I like your Pacific Turbine Wheel, I have to say that I have used them ever since they were put in, both 13 and 15 inch diameters. When I substituted your 15 inch wheel for the 15 inch Leffel wheel, though unfinished, it worked the machinery like a top, using 52 ft of water per minute more than the 15 inch Leffel. At your request I subsequently took your wheel out that it might be finished, and then put in a 15 inch Leffel; but it gave no better power than yours while it used 52 cubic feet more water, per minute. After some months, I replaced your wheel and am still using it with the most satisfactory results. I have subjected it to severe tests. For instance, while running the circular saw in a log which squared 15 inches, I added the planer with a 9 inch knife, cutting from one eighth to one-fourth of an inch in depth, without in the least slacking the speed. After thorough tests of both wheels, I am satisfied that your wheel with seventy-eighth of an inch gate gives as much power as the Leffel with gates one third open. At half gate, your wheel gives double the power of the Leffel at half gate. At full gate, the power of yours exceeds that of the Leffel, by from ten to twelve per cent. At quarter gate, the Leffel holds no comparison with yours at quarter gate.

N. B. Mr. Fluley was not present at either of the trials of his wheel, he being sick at the first, and absent from the State, at the second trial.
